The following questions assume that you are applying for an MA or PhD program. If you are applying for a job, please read "program" as "position" and "university" as "employer".

- c) Are you in the process of writing your bachelor or master thesis? At which chair? What is your topic? If possible describe in 3-5 sentences what you are planning to do? (If your thesis is finished, provide your grade.)

- 2) Have you worked as a student assistant at our chair? (If yes, please give the dates and list 2-3 of your main tasks.)

- 3) Do you want a letter of recommendation that is specific to a program or a more general letter? (In our experience, more specific letters tend to be more helpful.)

program-specific more general

- 4) For which program or, if you want a more general letter, for which kind(s) of program(s) are you applying?

- 5) If you want a specific letter, does your prospective university provide any information for individuals who write letters of recommendation? If yes, please forward that information to us. In particular, some universities require "closed" letters that go directly to them and are never read by the applicants themselves. Please tell us if this is the case.

- 6) Where should we send the letter? We will need a postal address, email address, or the website where your university wants the letter to be uploaded.

- 7) Until when do you need the letter?

- 8) Do you want the letter to be in English or in German?

- 9) Why are you interested in the program that you are applying for?

- 10) Why are you suited for the position and how can the letter help to convince your prospective university that this is really the case? Please point us towards any of your skills that are required for the position and that we can vouch for in the letter. (This question is particularly important. In our experience, letters are most effective if they are specific in this respect.)

- 11) Is there anything else that you want us to take into consideration or include in the letter?
